

Conceptus entis non existit

Aut abstractus aut non non "abstractus", quia a nihil abstractit non "non abstractus", quia tunc nihil est conceptus Aut, includit existentiam aut non si includit, veritas formaliter est in conceptu si non includit, conceptus non est distinctivus

Conceptus aut non est analogus aut non distinctivus quia ipsae res non sunt partim eadem et partim diversae sed simplicitate diversae sedum etiam relatae

Resp. sedum eadem sedum rationem entis

Resp. haec rationem dicere aliquid multum commune.

What calls for protest is unconsciousness of the introduction of fresh insights that are not included in the definitions, postulates, or common notions. What equally calls for protest is that pursuit of logical rigor which culminates in the mistaken view that insight can be eliminated entirely but consists, really, in the collection of/all insights into/xx amorphous object named the coherence of implicit definitions.
