On behalf of the editorial committee of the international review of socio-religious research, SOCIAL COMPASS, let me request your collaboration with regard to a special issue being prepared on the subject: Sociology and Theology. You will find annexed some details on the drawing up of this issue.

The theme proposed is eventually complex and the stands taken on this subject are very diverse. The review would like to render a service to theologians and sociologists helping them to confront each other. We are well aware that the task undertaken is but the start of a more systematic trend of thinking that we hope to pursue in the future.

Your collaboration would be deeply appreciated. You are indeed interested in this subject and the works published by you have incited the editorial committee to call on you. We are also aware that it is difficult to express oneself on a complex subject in a few words. It is in spite of this that we have dared to ask you.

Thanking you very much, in advance. Yours sincerely.

Jean Remy
