

(Karl Heussi, Henri-Irenée Marrou, R. G. Collingwood, Carl Becker) have labored constructively against positivist misconceptions of history.

The Complexity of the Issue: A Third Aspect.

A first aspect of this complexity was that scientists themselves knew the new knowledge not signate but only exerceite. A second aspect has been that, the further back one goes into the history of the new age,

Revolution

1 Religion / protestant wars

→ a socially alienated world --

2 feudal method & absolute theocracy vs bourgeois -- social freedom industrial progress

3 workers vs bourgeoisie

Unorganized masses vs workers & bourgeoisie

4 has potential to overcome its modernity through bourgeois & proletarian

Classism → Phylachism

5 Science vs belief in earlier world
