

the acceptance of the transcendental precepts of being attentive, intelligent, reasonable, and responsible. Still acceptance is one thing and performance is another. Moreover, while God's grace as elevans has nothing to do with such performance, it would be just nonsense to say that God's grace as sanans has nothing to do with it, for the function of grace as sanans is simply to help us do properly what, ^{, in principle, we} ~~we can do~~, could do without grace.