

1. What is meant by asking, What is this or that?

You may read some book on logic and get the notion that when one asks what something is, one is asking for a definition and further that a definition is had by assigning the genus and the specific difference.

That is a possible meaning, but it yields nothing much except a classification